Dear Friends,

We are glad to invite you for GreenPact international youth exchange program, organized by ReCreativity Social Enterprise, financed by the Erasmus+ program.

In this guide you will find all you need to know about the project - information about the program, accomodation, travel, reimbursement and other practical issues.

ReCreativity Crew

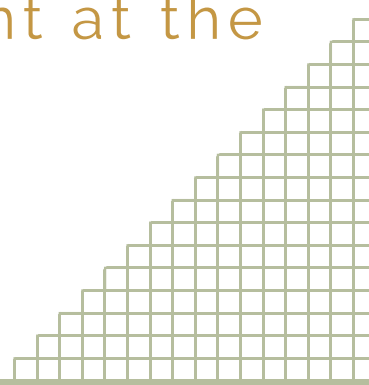

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The topic of the project is based on young people's and our environment's local and global needs. The main organizers are young experienced youth workers and entrepreneurs. We consider the theme of creative recycling as a very important issue.

During the program participants develop their creativity and entrepreneurship skills. They can express their individual talent and cooperate with other youngsters in a multicultural environment at the same time.

ReCreativity

ReCreativity is a social enterprise that operates a social studio in Budapest. We provide non formal programs and upcycled brands always using the tool of creative recycling, in order that people build creative solutions in their everyday life and in the mean time acquire environmental awareness.

Our activities include international & national youth programs and creative workshops. The method of learning by experience is combined with a creative process, most of the time in an international environment.

The Team

The program of the exchange is designed and conducted by a multicultural team of experienced trainers and assistants.

Judit Osika is a freelance trainer, coach and artist. Her passions include growth and she facilitates this on several areas such as leadership, creativity and communication.

THE AIMS OF THE PROJECT

Creating together is a new and unusual way of connecting, because during creation we open up in a different way, our brain focuses also on the process itself.

The objectives of project are:

- to promote inclusion, creativity and 'network thinking' in general and in youth work by using the method of creative recycling
- to equip youth workers with the method of creative recycling to be able to react on environmental issues in an innovative way, transfer it to their work and reach wide public
- to include young people living with disabilities in the sustainable lifestyle, support the first steps, improve their sense of initiative and creativity
- to empower young people to become active citizens, through sharing of critical knowledge and understanding of a sustainable way of living

HOW?

The method what we use we call 'creative recycling', it is a process when we create objects out of waste materials which can be found in each household. Working and creating together in an integrated group will bring you to a new level of accepting each other, listening, communication, you will develop social skills and give a whole new perspective to environment protection and sustainability too.
